5 Art

PAGE 59

analyse /ˈænəlaɪz/ verb
if you analyse something, you examine and think about it so you can understand it Effie didn't really like analysing novels and plays at university – she felt it spoiled the story.

PAGE 60

comic /ˈkɒmɪk/ noun
a comic is a magazine that tells stories in pictures, they are also called graphic novels
Some people say comics and graphic novels aren't serious art, but I think they are brilliant.

client /ˈklaɪənt/ noun
a client is a customer who buys services or advice
We ask clients to let us know 24 hours beforehand if they need to cancel an appointment.

canvas /ˈkænvəs/ noun
a canvas is the material artists usually make paintings on Maria prefers painting on canvas to painting on paper.

PAGE 61

primarily /praɪˈmerəli/ adverb primarily means mainly or most importantly We went to Egypt primarily to see the pyramids.

speaks to our emotions /spiːks tuː ˈaʊər ɪˈməʊʃ(ə)nz/ phrase if you say that something speaks to your emotions or speaks to you, you mean you have an emotional reaction to it Christine said the painting spoke to her emotions when she viewed it for the first time.

make a connection /meɪk ə kəˈnɛkʃ(ə)n/ phrase if you say that you make a connection with someone or something, you are having a positive personal interaction with them make/feel a (strong, deep) connection with someone or something A lot of young readers make a strong connection with the Harry Potter stories.

evolution /ˌiːvəˈluːʃ(ə)n/ noun an evolution is a development Yakub is studying the evolution of language.

bare /beə(r)/ adjective bare means without covering, clothing or decoration
The apartment looked really bare when we first moved in.

manga /ˈmæŋgə/ noun
manga is a Japanese form of graphic novel Luca is good at art and he loves telling stories, so he's going to manga classes.

high art /haɪ ɑː(r)t/ noun high art refers to art that critics consider serious, it is usually seen as superior to popular or low art
Some artists were not taken seriously during their lifetimes, but later their work was seen as high art.

PAGE 62

print /prɪnt/ noun
a print is a type of art made by pressing coloured designs on to a surface of paper or cloth, it also means a copy of a picture Andy Warhol's prints are some of the most well-known 20th century pop art works.

PAGE 63

performance /pə(r)ˈfɔː(r)məns/ noun a performance is a show for people who are watching to give a performance
Anna Pavlova's 'The Dying Swan' is one of the most famous ballet performances ever.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

choir /ˈkwaɪə(r)/ noun
a choir is a group of singers who sing together When Christos was young he sang in the church choir.

thriller /ˈθrɪlə(r)/ noun
a thriller is an exciting film or book, which tells a story about dangerous and frightening events My favourite author's new crime thriller is so exciting I can't put the book down!

cartoon /kɑː(r)ˈtuːn/ noun a cartoon is an animated film, such as Zootopia or Persepolis
I used to think cartoon films were just for children, but there some excellent adult ones.

contemporary /kənˈtemp(ə)r(ə)ri/ adjective something that is contemporary is modern; it belongs to the current time Veronica prefers classical art to contemporary.

grab /græb/ verb
if you grab, you take hold of something quickly and roughly Matteo, don't grab the cakes! It's really rude.

carnival /ˈkɑː(r)nɪv(ə)l/ noun a carnival is a public street festival and includes music, dancing and bright costumes
The Rio de Janeiro Carnival is probably the most famous in the world. I'd love to go one day.

cereal box /ˈsɪərɪəl bɒks/ noun a cereal box is a cardboard box that contains breakfast cereal, such as cornflakes Primary schools often collect cereal boxes and other packaging for the children to make things out of.

PAGE 64

horror film /ˈhɒrə(r) fɪlm/ noun a horror film is a film which is intended to make the audience feel frightened, usually about monsters, ghosts or evil people I love horror films, but I usually find them entertaining rather than frightening.

PAGE 65

I'm (not) into /aɪm ˈɪntuː/ phrase if you say you are into something it's an informal way of saying you are very interested in it, or enjoy it Sean's really into traditional Irish music.

PAGE 67

clarify /ˈklærɪfaɪ/ verb
if you clarify something you explain it again in clearer language
If you're not sure, just ask the teacher to clarify the instructions.

rap /ræp/ noun, verb rap is type of pop music with a strong beat in which the artist speaks rather than sings the words rap artist, rap song
Lowkey is a popular British rap artist.

PAGE 68

fascinating /ˈfæsɪneɪtɪŋ/ adjective something that is fascinating is very interesting and attractive absolutely fascinating
I find this miniature art fascinating – how do they make such tiny things?

stunning /ˈstʌnɪŋ/ adjective something that is stunning is extremely and surprisingly beautiful or impressive absolutely stunning
The dance performance was absolutely stunning.

donation /dəʊˈneɪʃ(ə)n/ noun a donation is money given usually to an arts or political organisation or a charity to help pay for the work they do make a (large, small, generous) donation to something
The audience gave us lots of money in donations at the end of the the show this evening.

PAGE 69

magic /ˈmædʒɪk/ noun magic is a special quality making something seem better than ordinary When she sang the song at the end of the concert it was absolutely magic.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

6 Where I'm from

PAGE 71

bubble chart /ˈbʌb(ə)l ʧɑː(r)t/ noun a bubble chart is a kind of diagram that helps us compare groups as each one is shown is in a different size bubble (circle) to represent the the size of the group Read the information and then make a bubble chart to show how many people of each age group live in the city.

PAGE 72

metropolis /məˈtrɒpəlɪs/ noun metropolis is a synonym for large city a vast metropolis
Tokyo is probably the largest metropolis in the world.

gathering /ˈgæðərɪŋ/ noun
a gathering means a party or a meeting a family gathering, a social gathering
We are going to have a big gathering in the garden for my parents' wedding anniversary.

PAGE 73

temporary /ˈtemp(ə)rəri/ adjective something that is temporary only lasts for a short time; opposite to permanent a temporary arrangement
I'm staying at my aunt's house, but it's only temporary until I find a place of my own.

needs are met /ˈniːdz ɑː(r) ˈmet/ phrase if you say your needs are met, this is the passive form of the phrase meet your needs, you mean that you are provided with the things you need, such as food, water and shelter During the disaster, the government wasn't able to meet our needs.

treat /triːt/ verb
if you treat someone, you give them medical care treat someone for an illness or condition After the accident Sally was treated for a broken arm and shock.

welfare /ˈwelfeə(r)/ noun welfare is support provided by a government or organization to help people financially, socially or medically After Abdul lost his job, the family had to rely on welfare payments.

PAGE 74

feel at home /fiːl ət ˈhəʊm/ phrase if you say you feel at home, you mean that you feel relaxed and comfortable in a place or situation I lived in Shanghai for four years, but I never really felt at home – I prefer small towns.

saying /ˈseɪɪŋ/ noun
a saying means a phrase; usually a well-known expression which gives advice about life, such as 'Actions speak louder than words'
My brother's favourite saying is 'Don't worry, be happy.'

chilli /ˈʧɪli/ noun
a chilli is a type of pepper, usually small and hot, which is used to make food spicy This recipe says fifteen green chillies! Do you think it's a mistake?

put into practice /pʊt ˈɪntə ˈpræktɪs/ phrase if you say that you put something into practice, you mean that you use or apply your knowledge of it put something into practice It's only after you pass your test that you can really put your driving skills into practice live by myself /ˈlɪv baɪ maɪˈself/ phrase if you say that you live by yourself, you mean that you live alone

I like living by myself because I can do whatever I like.

PAGE 75

suburb /ˈsʌbɜː(r)b/ noun
a suburb is an area around the edge of a town or city where people live Olga grew up in a suburb on the edge of Moscow.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

PAGE 76

chain store /ˈtʃeɪn stɔː(r)/ noun a chain store is one of a number of stores owned by the same company Leah prefers small independent shops to chain stores.

harbour /ˈhɑː(r)bə(r)/ noun a harbour is a sheltered area on a sea coast where boats stay when they are not at sea There was a lighthouse at the harbour entrance.

hostel /ˈhɒst(ə)l/ noun
a hostel is a cheap basic hotel often used by students youth hostel

monument /ˈmɒnjʊmənt/ noun a monument is a structure, such as a statue or building, which was built to remember a famous person or important event a monument to someone or something There's a lot of disagreement nowadays about which historical figures should have monuments.

shopping mall /ˈʃɒpɪŋ mɔːl/ noun a shopping mall is a very large building that contains a lot of shops, restaurants, cinemas etc.
My American friend used to buy things at the shopping mall every day.

stall /stɔːl/ noun
a stall is a small shop – often just a table – in a market market stall, stall holder
Our charity group runs a stall in the market on Saturdays.

backpacker /ˈbækˌpækə(r)/ noun a backpacker is someone travelling around from place to place carrying their luggage in a backpack to go backpacking
Marty spent a year as a backpacker between school and university.

it comes alive /ɪt kʌmz əˈlaɪv/ phrase if you say that a place comes alive at a certain time, you mean that it becomes more lively and interesting at that time.
Serena lives in a seaside town which is a bit boring most of the time, but it comes alive in the summer.

PAGE 80

historic monument /hɪsˈtɒrɪk ˈmɒnjʊmənt/ noun a historic monument is an ancient building rather than a commemorative structure like on page 76 Petra is famous for its historic monuments.

nap /næp/ noun
a nap is a short sleep during the daytime take a nap, have a nap
In some countries nearly everyone takes an afternoon nap, especially if it's very hot.

roof terrace /ruːf ˈterəs/ noun a roof terrace is an outdoor area or garden on top of a building, in warm countries these areas are sometimes used as bars
There was a lovely roof terrace on the top of the hotel.

it's a pity /ɪts ə ˈpɪti/ phrase if you say that it's a pity, you mean that you are disappointed about something it is/was (such) a pity that...
It's such a pity the exhibition will finish before you arrive in London.

PAGE 81

make sense /meɪk ˈsens/ phrase if you say that something makes sense, you mean that it is easy to understand and logical I'm sorry, I've read your essay three times, but it just doesn't make sense.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

7 Balance

PAGE 83

advice column /əd'vaɪs kɒləm/ noun an advice column is part of a newspaper or magazine where readers are given advice about their problems Do you think the letters on the advice page are really sent by readers, or does a journalist make them up?

achieve balance in your life /ə'ʧiːv 'bæləns ɪn jə(r) laɪf/ phrase if you say that you want to achieve balance in your life, you mean that you want to give equal importance to all the different aspects of your life work-life balance, in balance
John says says he's achieved a much better balance in his life since he decided not to do any work at the weekends.

PAGE 84

concentrate /'kɒns(ə)nˌtreɪt/ verb if you concentrate on something, you focus all your attention on it concentrate on (doing) something Lina couldn't concentrate on her work because of the noise in the street.

microbreak /'maɪkrəʊbreɪk/ noun a microbreak means a really short rest of just a few minutes I like the idea of microbreaks, but it's difficult to get back to work after only five minutes, so I think it's better not to stop at all.

productive /prə'dʌktɪv/ adjective someone who is productive is achieving a lot, doing useful work Interestingly, countries with longer working weeks are not more productive than places where people work fewer hours.

PAGE 85

to-do list /tə'duː lɪst/ noun a to-do list is a list of things you need to do I write a to-do list everyday to keep myself organized, but I often lose it!

PAGE 86

hang out /hæŋ aʊt/ phrasal verb if you hang out somewhere it means you go there to do nothing in particular, just pass the time, relax and maybe socialize Leon and his friends usually hang out in the woods after school.

concern /kən'sɜː(r)n/ noun a big concern is something that is a serious worry or problem a minor concern, to have concerns about something, to be/feel concerned Young people's mental health is a big concern in many western countries.

gear /gɪə(r)/ noun
gear is someones possessions
Have you got Matty's phone number? He left all his gear in our flat after the party.

trail /treɪl/ noun
a trail is a walking path
We could take the tourist trail up the mountain, but it's crowded and not very challenging.

steep /stiːp/ adjective something that is steep is a slope, hill or mountain that rises very fast, so it's difficult to climb opposite: gradual slope
The hill was so steep Sam wasn't sure his old car would be able to get up it.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

PAGE 87

scuba diving /ˈskuːbə daɪvɪŋ/ noun scuba diving is swimming underwater with special breathing equipment so you can stay underwater for a long time go scuba diving
We saw some incredible brightly coloured fish when we went scuba diving in Thailand.

PAGE 88

good manners /gʊd ˈmænə(r)z/ noun good manners is polite behaviour, such as saying please and thank you, and not speaking when you have food in your mouth have good/bad manners
May and Ed's children have terrible manners; they never say please and they leave the dinner table without permission.

budget /ˈbʌdʒɪt/ noun
a budget is a financial plan for what you will do with your money have/make/keep a budget Suzannah deals with her money much better now she has a budget mortgage /ˈmɔː(r)gɪdʒ/ noun a mortgage is a very large debt for money borrowed to buy a home It's a lovely house, but it will take 25 years for Huan to pay off the mortgage.

saving /ˈseɪvɪŋ/ noun savings is money you are not spending because you want to keep it for future use save up, life savings
I hope we'll have enough in our savings to take a holiday next year.

PAGE 93

access /ˈækses/ verb
if you access something, you get into it, contact it or take part in it, especially if it's online get/gain access to
I don't know what's gone wrong, I can't access my online bank account.

strengthen /ˈstreŋθ(ə)n/ verb if you strengthen something you make it stronger Mikala's Arabic is getting much better, but she needs to strengthen her writing skills.

range /reɪndʒ/ noun
a range means a number of different things of the same category, e.g. a range of books on politics a range of things, a wide range, a narrow range Have you ever been to Rudi's Record Shop? They have a brilliant range of vinyl music there!

outweigh /aʊtˈweɪ/ verb if one thing outweighs another it is more important far outweigh, slightly outweigh
The benefits of this new drug far outweigh the small risk of side-effects.

essential /ɪˈsenʃ(ə)l/ adjective something that is essential is absolutely necessary the bare essentials, essential to do something, essential that If you plan to travel with us, it's essential that you get your passport renewed.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

8 Essentials

PAGE 95

ellipsis /ɪ'lɪpsɪs/ noun ellipsis is the practice of leaving out words in a sentence rather than than repeating them when the meaning will be clear Using ellipsis in your writing will make it flow better; for example, 'Are you going to Nairobi tomorrow?' 'Yes, I am.' – the speaker doesn't need to say 'going to Nairobi tomorrow'.

PAGE 97

cloth /klɒθ/ noun
a cloth is a piece of material of the kind clothes are made of, e.g. cotton Have you seen my face cloth? It's not in the bathroom.

fizzy drink /'fɪzi drɪŋk/ noun a fizzy drink is a carbonated drink with bubbles in it, such as soda or cola Fizzy drinks are very popular, especially with young children, but they are incredibly unhealthy.

PAGE 98

landfill /'læn(d)ˌfɪl/ noun a landfill is a place where rubbish is buried in the ground There's a landfill just outside our village – on hot days it smells awful.

fieldwork /'fiːldˌwɜː(r)k/ noun fieldwork is research work that is carried out in the real world rather than a library, office or lab Archaeology students at this university do three periods of fieldwork during the course.

PAGE 99

second-hand /ˌsekənd 'hænd/ adjective something that is second-hand, was owned by another person before you bought it pre-owned (synonym)
Charlie only buys second hand clothes because people who make fast fashion are very badly treated.

environmental cost /ɪnˌvaɪərən'mɛnt(ə)l kɒst/ noun an environmental cost has a negative impact on the environment There are a lot of environmental costs related to waste.

three quarters /θriː 'kwɔː(r)tə(r)z/ noun three quarters (¾) is 75% of something three quarters of something Three quarters of our pupils come to school without having any breakfast.

vintage /'vɪntɪdʒ/ adjective something that is vintage, such as clothes, is from the past, but it suggests they are stylish as well as old Where did you get that fantastic vintage coat? It was my grandma's when she was young. Isn't it cool?

convince /kən'vɪns/ verb if you convince somebody, you persuade them something is true or a good idea convince someone of something, convince someone (that) something is true, convince someone to do something, convince someone they should do something Paul tried to convince his father he should drive less but he wouldn't listen.

PAGE 100

can't live without /'kɑːnt lɪv wɪð'aʊt/ phrase if you say that you can't live without something, you mean it's essential in your life, but usually this is just a way of saying you like something very much can/can't/could/couldn't etc live without something Obviously I could live without it, but I wouldn't like to live without coffee.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.

bitter /'bɪtə(r)/ adjective something that is bitter is a strong, sharp taste, which can be unpleasant if it's too strong, e.g. coffee or very dark chocolate have a bitter taste In Britain there's a type of beer called "bitter" because that is how it tastes.

cheesy /'ʧi:zi/ adjective something that is cheesy has a lot of cheese, or tastes of cheese I don't like cheesy crisps, the flavour tastes very artificial.

creamy /'kri:mi/ adjective something that is creamy has a lot of cream, or has the texture of cream Sam made a delicious creamy cake for my birthday.

buttery /'bʌtəri/ adjective something that is buttery has a lot of butter, or tastes of butter We love having buttery croissants for breakfast when we visit France.

yummy /'jʌmi/ adjective something that is yummy is an informal way of saying tasty or delicious yum yum! yukky (opposite)
We bought our teacher some yummy looking chocolates as a goodbye present.

Laotian /'laʊʃ(ə)n/ adjective
Someone who is Laotian is from or related to Laos
My friend Kai is Laotian. He's studying medicine at university.

PAGE 102

atmosphere /'ætməsfɪə(r)/ noun the atmosphere of a place or social gathering is the general feeling and relationships between people The restaurant is designed to have a romantic atmosphere with low lights and soft music.

virtual call /'vɜ:(r)tjʊəl kɔ:l/ noun a virtual call is an online meeting Many workers got used to virtual calls during the pandemic, so now a lot of companies are sticking to them for meetings.

keen on /ki:n ɒn/ phrase if you say that you are keen on something, you mean that you like it and feel enthusiastic about it be keen on something or someone, mad keen Gina tried split snowboarding last winter, but she wasn't very keen on it.

PAGE 103

genuine /'ʤenjuɪn/ adjective someone who is genuine is honest and sincere Trudy always seems very friendly and enthusiastic, but I am never sure if she is genuine.

PAGE 104

body language /'bɒdi læŋgwɪdʒ/ noun body language is how we communicate with our bodies, e.g. the way we sit, our facial expressions, rather than language I'm sure Aki and Mus have had an argument. Did you notice their body language?

PAGE 105

acceptable /ək'septəb(ə)l/ adjective a certain behaviour that is acceptable is something that can be allowed and is polite in a particular culture acceptable (for someone) to do something, OK or not OK Is it acceptable for people to hold hands in public in your country?

charming /'ʧɑ:(r)mɪŋ/ adjective someone that is charming is likeable and attractive He is a very charming man, but I'm not sure I trust him.

key to something /ki: tu: 'sʌmθɪŋ/ phrase something that is the key to something is the best way of achieving success in that situation Cat says the key to learning a foreign language is chatting with native speakers.

session /'seʃ(ə)n/ noun a session is period of time spent doing a particular thing
The one day conference was divided into four sessions; two in the morning and two in the afternoon.

© Cengage Learning, Inc.